

Vandals

1983

You're walking through this downtown city
and you see all the graffiti on the walls.
You're kicking with your shiny black shoes
fish and chip paper flying loose in the street.

A broken window, an emptied bin
you shake your head, this is a sin you say aloud.

And when you go to walk your dog
you don't like walking through the park through such a mess.

Chorus:
Vandals, vandals of this world,
vandals, you make life so hard.
Vandals, vandals everywhere.
You become more and more and more.

You must admit that you're much better.
Always concerned about the litter you produce.
You get permission from Downing Street to dump you waste that's real neat in the sea.

And don't you worry about the air:
Your fumes will go anywhere but stay here.

Oh, you are trying, God Almighty,
so hard to keep this country tidy - well done.
